POINCARE UNDERGOES SECOND OPERATION — FAVORABLE REPORT IS ISSUED BY FORMER FRENCH PREMIER'S PHYSICIANS

Paris, Oct. 21.—Raymond Poincare, former French president and premier, underwent an operation for a pelvic disorder today, the second he has had in recent months for this trouble.

The physicians early Issued the following bulletin:

"The second operation on Mr. Poincare was performed this morning under good conditions by Dr. Marion with the assistance of Drs. Gossett, Boivoin, and Perard."

At the same time, Georges Clemenceau, former premier and minister of war, was under the treatment of his physicians, who found him suffering from a slight cold.

M. Poincare resigned his premiership in the summer after he had heard ratication of the Young reparations plan by the French chamber of deputies. He at once submitted to a first operation for his troubles, and began to rest and build up his health in preparation for the second ordeal today.

He was removed only last night from his home to a private clinic for the operation.

The former premier was in the best of spirits when he was taken to the operating room. He laughed as he told his doctors he did not want all the boisible details of his illness broadcast.

"I don't want the newspapers describing the color of my pyjamas or the form of my bed socks, he told them. The first visitor to inquire as to the result of the operation and inscribe his name in the new visitors' book was Aristide Briand, who followed M. Poincare as head of the French government.

Other members of the government and notables came after him.

The former premier was resting tranquilly, it was said at noon at the clinic, and his condition was most satisfactory.

DECISION RAISES HOPES OF BRITISH WOMEN TO SIT IN UPPER HOUSE

London, Oct. 19.—"The House of Lords next"—that is the theory which runs all through today's comment on the judgment of the privy council yesterday which recognized the eligibility of women for appointment to the senate of Canada.

Practically every newspaper in Britain gives prominence to the ruling. The victory of Canadian women, it is generally felt, can scarcely fail to affect the claim of women to sit in the house of lords as peeresses in their own right, whether by inheritance or creation.

Mrs. Helen Archdale, president of the Women Peers Society, which is agitating for peeresses in their own right to be admitted to the upper chamber, declares the judgment certainly strengthened their position considerably. Miss Collinson, organizer of the British Commonwealth League, describes the judgment as a real triumph. "It is far more significant and far-reaching than it is possible even for lawyers to comprehend," she said.

The Daily Herald says:

"The public-spirited pertinacity of Canadian women who appealed to the privy council against the Canadian Supreme Court's decision is splendidly justified in the result. As, while supporters of the doctrine of electoral equality will everywhere welcome this latest victory in a hard fought and many phased battle, nowhere will it be welcomed more wholeheartedly than in the labor and socialist movement."

Not Male Preserve for Long

"Perhaps the second chamber may remain the last male preserve. But not, we suspect, for many years more," commented the Daily Telegraph."

The British end of the controversy dates from 1919 when a seat in the house of Lords was claimed on behalf of Lady Rhondda, a peeress in her own right. A private member's bill was passed in the commons, enabling women to exercise all public functions, but did not get through the house of lords. Later the government sponsored a similar bill with a specific clause enabling the king to summon a peeress in person qualified. The lords rejected the clause, and the commons reinstated it. The lords again threw it out. After a long legal battle the matter was dropped, until Lady Astor introduced a new bill, which so far has not met with any success.

CARE OF A SMALL FLOCK OF SHEEP

(Experimental Farms Note)

Lamb, mutton and wool are in demand and good prices should rule bright for sheep raising at the present time. A few words on the care of a small flock of sheep may be particularly appropriate at this season of the year, as the fall is the best time for the beginner to start into the sheep business.

The inexperienced sheep raiser should begin with grade ewes, the best available, and a pure bred ram. The breed will depend largely on the purchaser's preferences, but it should be borne in mind that one breed in a district is desirable from an economic viewpoint. Care should be exercised in selecting ewes to see that they have normal udders and be not "broken mouths." The beginner should plan to start with at least ten ewes, or more if finances are available.

Unless lambs are to be dropped in cold weather, no expense to provide warmth is necessary. A building that is dry, free from draughts and that will keep out rain and snow is desirable. A yard enclosed with woven wire, which is dog and coyote proof, is essential.

Ewes generally come in heat in late fall, the period lasting from one to three days, and recurring at intervals of 14 to 19 days. The gestation period is around 145 days, so the farmer can largely control his lambing season. Ewes are usually "flushed" before breeding. This consists in bringing ewes on to succulent pasture prior to breeding in order that they may be in good condition and gaining in flesh. This practice helps to secure a large lamb crop. Frequently the pastures are supplemented by grain feeding at this time. Pastures and stubble fields will form the main source of feed for sheep in the late fall. In winter good legume hay, from 3 to 5% pounds per day, will form the bulk of the ration. Succulent feed in the form of silage or roots should be fed sparingly before lambing time, while towards lambing a small grain ration of half-a-pound of oat chop per day should be use.

The lambing season is the shepherd's harvest, and the size and quality of the crop largely determine the profits. If date of service is known the early lambing ewes can be penned off and the rest of the flock and given special attention. Well fed ewes seldom have any trouble, but an abundant supply of on hand to give assistance at parturition if necessary. A common trouble at lambing is milk fever. This can be controlled by feeding ewes iodine in the form of iodized salt made by dissolving 2 to 4 ounces of potassium iodide in water, and pouring over 100 pounds of bone salt and mixing thoroughly. This should be fed for a time before and during pregnancy.

Sheep and lambs require a certain attention, but their management can be learned and understood by anyone who is willing to observe carefully, and think and attend to details as attention is required.

A BAD COLD—PERHAPS

Joan and Mary always walked to and from school together. But Joan was on her way to call for her little chum. They had almost quarrelled the afternoon before. Joan couldn't understand it, usually Mary was so even-tempered. This morning Mary was not dancing along to the gate to meet her and when she knocked at the door, Mary's mother told her that Mary had a bad cold, was in bed and would not be going to school for a few days. "Can I see her, please, Mrs. Jones?" "No, Joan, I am keeping Mary all by herself until we see what is going to develop. It may be just a bad cold, or it may be measles, chicken pox, scarlet fever or oh; almost anything. It may be some serious illnesses begin with just a BAD COLD and it is much easier to isolate Mary and watch her, than to nurse a whole household, down with a contagious disease."

Mrs. Jones was a modern mother who read health literature, subscribe to magazines that published articles on the bringing up of children, was eager and was decided in her opinion that PREVENTION IS BETTER THAN CURE.

So do you watch that bad cold in child or adult. It pays.

WOMEN MAY SIT IN CANADA'S SENATE — PRIVY COUNCIL DECIDES CASE SUBMITTED BY WOMEN OF ALBERTA

London, Oct. 18. — Women are eligible to be summoned and become members of the senate of Canada. Their lordships of the judicial committee of the privy council rendered this decision today on the appeal by five representative women of Alberta against an adverse decision of the Canadian supreme court.

Contrary to the supreme court, the privy council today came to the conclusion that the word "persons" includes members of both the male and female sex.

The appeal hinged upon the meaning to be attached to the word "persons" as contained in the clause of the British North America Act.

GRAVELLING SUNSHINE TRAIL DUE FOR EARLY COMPLETION, REPORT SHOWS

November 15 is the tentative date set for the present time for the finish of the 32-mile link between Lethbridge and New Dayton have been gravel surfaced, the road gang completing the section up to Craddock on Saturday night. Movement of machinery and equipment has been made to New Dayton, and the remaining 12 miles will be completed by the middle of next month provided, the weather remains favorable. Work on both ends will be commenced shortly, as will the nine miles east of New Dayton which will link up the new and the old gravel.

The Sunshine trail secondary highway between Kipp and Carmangay, on the Aldersyde branch, will be completed by the middle of this week. This announcement was made Monday by D. B. Rees, assistant district engineer, who was engineer in charge of construction.

50-50 Basis

This new highway has been brought up to standard grade under the 50-50 basis, the municipalities concerned paying half the expense and the provincial government the other half. The road in question is 32 miles in length, the completed will mean an outlay of approximately $33,000. This is a heavy burden for small municipalities such as Barons, Nobleford, and Carmangay, but with the benefits which will accrue to the public following on this road it is thought they will be amply repaid. Their example should be an incentive for other municipalities to do the same thing and in this way a network of high-class roads connecting all parts of the province to receive gravel would be speedily constructed throughout the province.

The grade on the new Kipp-Carmangay road is excellent and in some respects better than the Sunshine trail between Lethbridge and Macleod. Work commenced on the road last July and finishing touches were put on same on at various points. The gang in charge of the work are at present between Nobleford and Kipp and Wednesday is the day on which completion is looked for.

TAG DAYS AND CAMPAIGNS

The public have and will always be asked to support worthy campaigns either by subscription or tag days. All of these are worthy in the extreme and deserving of our public life. There is one, however, which overshadows all these in our national life.

Armistice Day will soon be upon us, which is a day imprinted in the memory of the civil world as being one of "national" importance but of "world wide" importance. The extent to which this day is observed was lauded by people of every nationality cannot be measured, and we need be asked to support campaigns relatives anxiously concerned about the welfare of their own will never be forgotten.

We owe to Canada's 60,000 men who gave their lives a solemn tribute on Armistice Day, and should all bring this to attention once per year. November 11th is the day for this remembrance which has spread all over Canada will display its remembrance by wearing the Poppy.

Every Canadian or citizen in this glorious land of ours is asked to Wear the Poppy which is emblematic of this tribute.

The Canadian Government is employing our disabled men to make these poppies in order to provide a means of employment for them, and the time they spend occupies their attention and helps to relieve their suffering for a little while. Each Poppy bears the Vetcraft stamp.

The Legion is responsible in Canada under the leadership of General Sir Arthur Currie G. C. M. G., K. C. B., in appealing to all citizens to remember the day.

Is there a citizen who will refrain from paying this tribute to our dead soldiers? Her Excellency, Lady Willingdon is Patroness in Chief for the Canadian Legion. Other countries are observing this day in this manner, let Canadians be Canadians by showing by their wearing the poppy that to any country in the World in this observance.

The Banner of every town in Alberta where no Branch of the Legion exists has been made aware of this campaign and is ready to form a Central Committee to operate.

Any towns who require Poppies for this occasion can get them from the Department by getting in touch with the Provincial Secretary of the Canadian Legion at Calgary. Arthur Wakelyn, Prov. Sec.

The paper-towel idea probably was originated by some chap who saw what happened to a dollar bill at the oil station.

In this territory there are eight churches and three mission fields.

Barnes, convener of church life and work; Much Mackintosh, convener of pension fund; Rev. Kelley, convener of committee on Missions, and A. G. Robertson, chairman of budget committee. Dr. White was present in an advisory capacity and at the meeting a letter of congratulation was read from Rev. Roxburgh, of Edmonton, clerk of the presbytery, expressed his pleasure on the reorganization of the presbytery.

After some discussion on several matters which were brought before the meeting, the Presbytery adjourned and will meet in Macleod on the first Wednesday in March 1930.

TEN CASES ON DOCKET OF SUPREME COURT

The fall sittings of the Supreme Court Criminal Assizes was opened at the Macleod Court House on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with His Honor Judge W. C. Ives on the bench.

There are ten cases on the docket for hearing, two cases being for attempted suicide, both of which pleaded guilty and were discharged by the Judge, who told them both not to do it again. The other cases are:

Rex vs. Seth Barr, cattle stealing; J. D. Matheson, K. C., and Macleod Sinclair, K. C., for the crown, and J. W. McDonald, K. C., for the defendant.

Rex vs. L. La Vasseur, cattle stealing; J. D. Matheson, K.C., and Macleod Sinclair, K. C., for the crown and F. O. McKenna, Pincher Creek, for the defendant.

These two cases were set down for trial on Thursday morning.

Rex vs. Joseph Tracz, attempted carnal knowledge; J. D. Matheson K. C., for the crown and S. S. Bennett, Blairmore, for the defendant. The accused elected to be tried by jury.

Rex vs. Maude Thomas, assault occasioning bodily harm; J. D. Matheson, K. C., for crown, J. W. McDonald, K. C., for complainant and H. O. Haslem, K. C., Claresholm, fo rthe defendant. This case was heard by Judge Ives this afternoon and after hearing the evidence on both sides His Honor dismissed the case.

Rex vs. Adam Rucka, defamatory libel; accused elected to be tried by the Judge. J. D. Matheson, K. C., for crown, S. G. Bannan for the defendant.

Rex vs. A. Burton, shop breaking. To be tried by jury. J. D. Matheson, K. C., for crown and S. H. Nelson, Cardston, for the accused.

Rex vs. T. E. Watts and W. Powell, robbery. To be tried by jury. J. D. Matheson, K. C., for crown and J. W. McDonald, K. C., fo rthe defendants.

Rex vs. Jack Ripley, shooting with intent to do bodily harm. Elected to be tried by the judge. J. D. Matheson, K. C., for crown and J. W. McDonald, K. C., for the defendant.

The second day sittings of the Supreme Court Criminal Assizes was opened at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The first case called was Rex vs. Joseph Tracz, who pleaded not guilty to the charge of attempted carnal knowledge of a young girl when the accused was arraigned, he elected to be tried by the jury. This morning he was sentenced by the Judge alone. A number of witnesses were examined for the prosecution but no witnesses were called for the defence.

The Judge found the accused guilty and sentenced him to one year with hard labor in the Lethbridge jail. S. G. Bannan, barrister of Blairmore, acted for the defence and J. D. Matheson, K. C., was for the crown. Sergt. Jones, A. P. P. of Blairmore, conducted the case and assisted Mr. Matheson.

On Tuesday afternoon the case called was Rex vs. A. Burton, charged with shop breaking at Waterton Lakes National Park on Thursday, September 19th, 1929. He elected to be tried by jury and the following jury was selected: Messrs. George Bevis, D. D. Huntley Bernard Stephens, Wm. M. Hay John Swinarton and Thos. W. Chester.

After hearing all the evidence for the prosecution and the evidence of the accused the court was adjourned till Wednesday morning at 9:30 to allow a material witness from the Lakes to be present. A question developed in the evidence which necessitated the calling of this witness by phone to be present.

The case of the Waterton Park shop breaking was continued in the Supreme Court on Wednesday morning when Mrs. A. Dayman was brought in specially to give evidence for the defence. On hearing the evidence, S. H. Nelson, Barrister, Cardston, who appeared for the defendant, addressed the jury. The Crown Prosecutor, J. D. Matheson, K. C., also addressed the jury. The Judge finally summing up and instructing the jury who retired at 10:50 o'clock to consider the evidence. They were out for one hour and thirty-five minutes, their verdict was "Guilty as Charged" viz., shop breaking. According to the records the accused has been sentenced to 3 months hard labor in Lethbridge jail.

While the jury were out considering the above, the Court proceeded with the case Rex vs. Adam Rucka, defamatory libel. After hearing the evidence, which seemed to be rather difficult to follow on account of the different languages spoken, the Judge found the charge proven and sentenced the accused to 1 year hard labour in Lethbridge jail.

The T. E Watts and W. Powell robbery case was commenced at the afternoon sitting and the following jury was empaneled: Messrs. T. W. Chester, W. A. Blair, G. Sheffield A. Ellis, J. Lash and R. Cunningham. The evidence for the Crown was all in at 5 o'clock and the case is proceeding, and will take all forenoon on Thursday.

HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION — DO NOT WHIP THE TIRED HORSE

It is natural for us to become tired as the result of our day's work. After a rest, we feel refreshed and are ready to start again. Activity and rest are the normal rhythm of life. If, however, tiredness or fatigue is increased by more activity, we reach a stage of exhaustion which is not normal, but harmful, and which may have very serious results.

Over-fatigue is not usually caused by severe effort. It is usually due to a work which is unsuitable for the worker, by bad working conditions, by monotony of the employment, or else because the individual concerned is not taking care of himself during the hours he spends away from work.

It is necessary that rest, whether it be taken sleeping, or lying down, or relaxing, or simply in a change of work, or of play, be used to prevent over-fatigue. To some people, it seems to be a matter of pride that they drive themselves on to more activity when their bodies are tired and calling out for rest. Exercise or play is certainly fine and most desirable, but it must be indulged in regularly if it is to do good. The man who tries to crowd a week's play into one day generally exhausts himself, and harm results. He should stop when he is tired.

Tea and coffee, used in moderation, are apparently not harmful for most people. When they are used as stimulants, to whip up a tired mind and body to more activity—either work or play—then what is needed is rest, they are being misused. Such stimulants do not relieve fatigue; they may seem to the user as if they did so, but the sensation is false and misleading.

Many may feel that because they cannot change their work or their working conditions, information such as that given above is of no value to them. The truth is that we can all do a great deal to prevent overfatigue by being sensible about how we use our time outside of work hours. Remember that a tired horse should not be whipped.

Questions, concerning health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

FISH MEAL AND OIL AS A FOOD FOR LIVESTOCK AND POULTRY

Ottawa, Oct. 21.—Production of fish meal and oil, an industry that has grown swiftly to large proportions in Canada in the past few years, continues to expand with the widening recognition of the exceptional value of the meal as a food for livestock and poultry and with increasing uses of the oil for a variety of purposes.

Last year's production of fish oil in the Dominion, exclusive of cod liver oil, amounted to 5,321,440 gallons and the fish meal production to 22,228 tons. The meal and oil together had a marketed value of $3,244,000.

Much of the meal and oil made in Canada is exported to foreign markets but large and increasing quantities are being sold to Canadian livestock men and poultrymen as the meal's value for feeding purposes is more and more realized, and one interesting recent development has been the use of meal made from lobster bodies and shells, waste material of the lobster canning industry, by fox ranchers in the Maritime Provinces.

The value of fish meal for stock and poultry food is largely due to its high content of protein and calcium phosphate. The protein content runs to sixty-five per cent. or more and in the case of some fish meals the calcium phosphate content reaches as much as fifteen per cent.

A good deal of the Canadian testing of fish meal for use in poultry feeding has been done in British Columbia—naturally enough since it is there that by far the greater part of the Dominion's output of fish oil and meal is produced—and it has been authoritatively stated that so satisfactory has the meal been found that a number of farms in that province is now used by the poultry raisers of the province. Stock raisers and dairymen also began to use fish meal for feeding purposes and found it superior to oil cake. "Our dairymen," said a British Columbia writer in a recent issue of an agricultural magazine, "have convinced themselves that fish meal is the most efficient source of protein available, and, furthermore, that their own oats grown at home and supplemented with from ten to fifteen per cent. fish meal makes an ideal grain ration."

Swine raisers, too, tried out fish meal and found it a superior food. Notwithstanding that the meal was cheap to buy and to feed, the pig raisers found that it made "an ideal source of protein for the brood sow, that the sow milked better, that the little pigs grew faster, that when the fish meal was included in a slop for the little pigs before they were weaned there was not the slump in the rate of growth that was so often apparent when pigs were otherwise weaned."

The experience of the poultrymen and the stock raisers in British Columbia is paralleled by the experience of poultry raisers and farmers in some other parts of Canada and in foreign countries. Fish meal is much used in the United States and various European countries and last year nearly 17,000 tons of Canada's production of meal was sold to the United States, Germany, and the Netherlands. The indications are, moreover, that the demand will increase, both at home and abroad, as the superior value of the meal to the poultryman and the farmer becomes increasingly known.

MOTOR CLUBS MAY SOON HAVE UNIFORM TRAFFIC REGULATIONS

Long favored by Alberta motorists and approved by the Canadian Automobile Association, the movement for a uniform code of traffic laws in the dominion is being well advanced. In all likelihood, definite action will be taken when the Canadian Bar Association meets with draft reports at its next convention in Quebec during October.

Speakers at conventions of the All berta Motor Association have frequently stressed the need of standard traffic regulations for all parts of the dominion. There has been confusion and at times, accidents, by motorists of the different provinces, due to the rules of the road not being the same as in the province they had just left.

Now the Canadian Bar Association, composed of legal men who realize the need of uniformity just as motorists do, has had a committee working on a draft which will be submitted at the next convention. This is being considered by Hon. J. F. Lymburn, the Alberta representative on the committee, who will present his report to the convention.

Standard regulating of the speed to be specified and the loads to be carried will be dealt with in the committee's report, which will be submitted at the next meeting of motorists in all parts of the dominion.

WOMEN ARE "PERSONS"

That present judgment of the Privy Council which establishes the fact that women, in the sight of the law, are "persons," and as such have the right to sit in the Canadian Senate, is a ruling that should have been made without carrying the argument outside Canada.

There is no law involved in this question. It is purely a matter of common sense and decency.

Any civilization is measured by the treatment it accords women and children.

If Canada should persist, through legal obstinacy, in denying full legislative privileges to Canadian women, this country would stamp itself as reactionary and stupid. It would cast a doubt upon the quality of its own civilization.

It is a pity that Canadian courts and Canadian judges could not have settled this question of women's constitutional rights without going through the formula of appealing to the British Privy Council.

There was no possible doubt of the outcome. The very fabric of Canadian character was at issue. It is unfortunate that Canadians could not have settled in themselves.

REVISING THE MARRIAGE SERVICE

After fifteen years of revision, a new prayerbook has been issued by the Protestant Episcopal church.

In the marriage service the woman no longer promises to obey. The man no longer offers to endow the bride with "all his worldly goods."

Marriage has become—and rightly, we think—more of a fifty-fifty proposition. Public opinion no longer views a woman as a chattel, nor forces her to be a slave to her husband's wishes, however grotesque.

Under the new service, marriage becomes what it should be, a fine partnership, a give-and-take arrangement suited to the speed and manners of the times.

Marriage is no longer a question of obedience by the wife to her husband, but the obedience of both to common sense ideals of good citizenship.

HOW SCIENCE HELPS WORKERS

The practical ways in which science helps working people is demonstrated again in England.

A lead mine in Derbyshire had "petered out." Two young schoolmasters invented an ore detector, just about the time a hundred miners had been discharged.

With the detector they located a new lead-ore body, 1000 feet under the surface. They figured it was worth about $250,000. The mine owners, having faith in science, put the miners back to work again, located the ore body through a tunnel and now the mine is working full blast.

Politicians continually promise miracles to help working folk. Science performs the miracles.

BE CONCISE—AND SUCCEED

Millions have heard the voice of Ramsay MacDonald since he reached North America. Probably every one of those millions has been impressed, most of them deeply. To hear him is to feel the pulse of some mighty surge, greater than the man himself, greater than any man. That force is the contact of speaker and listener. To achieve it takes oratory, and Ramsay MacDonald is a born orator. He does not shout, pound the table or borrow dramatics. Yet his words have a tremendous striking power.

What is the secret? First of all, the man's sincerity, that lifts him far out of mere exhortation. But there is more. Study his speeches, note how short sentences are knit together. Even in longer constructions, each phrase is distinct, each with a mission.

That is force. It is mastery. To use such English is to compel attention. Everyone wants to do that. But not everyone can. Not everyone is so equipped.

All can strive for it, however. And the first principle of success is, be brief. Surplus words muffle and deaden the meaning. That applies to all businesses, all professions.

Basic training, then, should be in simplicity of language. Schools can do a boy not better service than teach him to write and speak English that will make his meaning clear. Command of language brings confidence, clarifies the thinking process, improves the memory and impresses others.

SPECIAL MEETING MUNICIPAL DISTRICT OF BRIGHT

The Council of Bright Municipality met in special session on Saturday afternoon, to make a final decision on the Ardenville road question, about which a large deputation, both for and against, waited on the council a week ago. All the councillors were present with Reeve J. H. Evans presiding.

It was found that two resolutions had already been passed and inscribed in the minutes, one in 1928 and one early in 1929, both in favor of the new road being constructed. In order to open up the question again, these two resolutions would have to be cancelled. Therefore a motion was proposed to cancel the previous resolutions, but only two councillors supported the motion, the other four Councillors adhering to the previous resolutions, which means that the new road will be built. It is expected that grading the new road will commence as soon as possible.

THE CRITICISM

Father (dramatic critic): "How did you like 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' this afternoon?"

Son (who reads his father's criticisms): "The bloodhounds were really very good, but they were inadequately supported." — Christian Science Monitor.

WHAT'S LEFT?

Customer: "Can you vouch for this table as coming from the fifteenth century?"

Antique Dealer: "I certainly can—why, it was so old that I had to put four new legs on it and a new top."

THE ALIASES

Professor Zeitlin: "I call my 8 o'clock quiz the Pullman class because it has three sleepers and an observation section."

Dean Cantor: "Very good. I call my 9 o'clock Virgil class the pony express."—Illinois Siren.

SHOPPING NOTE

"If I were trying to match politeness," exclaimed the woman, "I'd have a hard time here."

"Let me see your sample," said the clerk, calmly.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

SUBURBAN ACTIVITIES

First Neighbor: "I'm sorry to have to ask you the fourth time for my lawn mower."

Second Neighbor: "Forgive me, old chap, but remember—I had to ask you ten times before you'd lend it to me."—Christian Science Monitor.

JUST A LESSON

The express had not been living up to its reputation. First it would go forward 50 yards or so, then back, then stand still, puffing uncertainly and then begin the same things all over again. At last one of the travelers called the guard.

"What's the matter with this train?" he demanded. "Backing up and jerking forward in this way."

"It's quite all right, sir," the guard assured him. "I think the engine driver is teaching his wife to drive."—Tit-Bits.

ST. ANDREW'S LADIES AID ENTERTAIN

The members of St. Andrew's Church Ladies' Aid were at home on Thursday evening last to the grown-ups of the congregation when they entertained them to supper in the Parish Hall. The invitation was given from the pulpit the previous Sunday that the ladies would be pleased to meet the adult members and adherents of the church for supper and a social evening.

The idea was to get together and meet in a social friendly manner, to get better acquainted with the minister Mr. Ferguson and with Mrs. Ferguson, as no reception had been held since they came to Macleod. The response was very gratifying about 100 being present, and a very enjoyable evening was spent, the ladies in the usual Presbyterian style providing a sumptuous feast of delicious eatables.

After the supper a short program was given which included a short and interesting address by Mr. Ferguson on the work and principles of the Presbyterian Church. A radio had been fitted up in the Hall for the purpose of giving those present the privilege of listening to the speeches at Ottawa of Premiers Ramsay MacDonald and McKenzie King. Unfortunately the latter part of Ramsay MacDonald's speech was not very distinct, some outside influence causing loud noises which interfered with the speaking. This was general with a number of radios in Macleod.

Altogether the evening's entertainment was pronounced a great success and the opinion was universally expressed that more of such gatherings would be welcomed and would create more interest in the work of the Church and would bring the members into closer fellowship with each other.

Votes of thanks were accorded to the ladies and others who contributed to the success of the evening.

THE LAYING HOUSE IN WINTER

(Experimental Farms Note)

Now that the time for the winter housing of the pullets is at hand it is well to realize just what is necessary to fulfill the requirements for greatest results in profitable returns.

Pullets to give maximum results must not only be well bred and well fed, they must be comfortably housed, which means that the house must be dry, thoroughly ventilated, without draughts, and bright and cheery. Such a house properly furnished to allow the maximum of unobstructed floor space is a satisfactory foundation on which to start the season's work.

To assure such conditions see that there are no leaking roofs, that all cracks in the walls are well battened, that the floor is sufficiently elevated above the surrounding ground so that it will be well drained, and if you have been troubled in the past by a moist condition on the roof or ceiling put in a straw loft and make openings in the gable ends of the house to allow a cross draught over the straw.

By all means use dropping boards under the roosts and clean them off regularly so that they will not contaminate the air which the fowl have to breathe. When the pullets are brought in from range in the fall try to make conditions as nearly as possible like those they have been accustomed to. They have been on grass range living in open houses, if when they are brought in they are put in close houses you may be almost certain that you will have trouble with fall colds and roup.

When they are put into their winter quarters the house should be kept wide open day and night and the birds allowed to spend the days in the yards surrounding the house. As the weather gets colder the windows may be gradually closed at night, but keep them open during the day, so long as the sun is shining, even in the severest weather.

The birds will do well even in severely cold weather so long as the houses are dry and thoroughly ventilated without draughts.

DEAR ME!

Neighbor: "Am inch? Why, the sparrows have to kneel down to eat mine."—Montreal Star.

EXPLICIT ADVICE

The Browns lived at a corner house, and were constantly annoyed by people ringing the doorbell to ask where other people in the road lived.

At last the son of the house decided to put an end to this nuisance.

"I don't think there will be any more trouble," he said, after spending a whole morning working away under the porch.

"Well, what have you done?" asked Mrs. Brown, who was very proud of her son, chiefly because he bore a striking resemblance to herself.

"Oh," returned the lad, blandly, "I just hung out a little sign I thought of the other day: 'Nobody lives here except us.'"—Answers.

AS A LADY SHOULD

Mother was entertaining company in the drawing room when Betty clattered noisily down from the nursery.

"Go upstairs again, and come down very quietly," said her mother. A short pause followed, and Betty reappeared, saying, "You didn't hear me this time, Mother, did you?"

"No," replied her mother, "you came down without a sound, as every lady should, Betty."

"Yes," returned Betty. "I slid down the bannister!"—Montreal Star.

REVEALED

At a dinner the guests were discussing whether women or men were the more trustworthy in business. "No woman can keep a secret," said one man scornfully.

"I don't know so much about that," retored the forbidding looking woman sitting opposite him. "I've kept my age a secret ever since I was 24."

"Oh," he replied, "you'll let it out one day, though."

"I doubt it," she answered. "When a woman has kept a secret for 20 years, she can keep it forever."—Capper's Weekly.

EITHER ONE WILL DO

New Office Boy: "Why don't you go to the ball game today, sir? It's a great afternoon, business is quiet and I feel sure I can take care of things."

The Boss: "Yes, I know, but I am expecting a call. Thanks just the same."

New Office Boy: "Well, perhaps I'd better go, then. Both of us won't be needed around here."—Christian Science Monitor.

NOTHING NEW

COLMAN AT BEST IN "THE RESCUE"

"The Rescue," Friday and Saturday at the Empress Theatre, is an event in motion picture history in several directions. It shows Ronald Colman to his public for the first time in the capacity of an individual star, it brings one of Joseph Conrad's romances to the screen for the first time in an important production, and it introduces a new filmcharmer by the name of Lily Damita who seems fated to become one of the best-known actresses in Hollywood before she has finished her career.

Almost everyone knows the story of "The Rescue," which was Conrad's own favorite among all his novels. Colman is given the role of the English trader and freebooter in the Java seas, enmeshed in a web of native intrigue, and torn between his obligations to his native friends and his love for another Englishman's wife. Colman never appeared to better advantage than as the commander of the brig "Lightning," and he rang every change in the emotional potentialities of the role with masterly acting.

Lily Damita, Parisienne and blonde, deserves a whole paragraph by herself. Not only is her beauty quite distinct from that of any other film actress on the American screen, but her acting, always giving the impression of tremendous reserves of emotion underneath her movements and expressions, is of an entirely new kind, so far as this country is concerned. Duke Kahanamoku, the famous swimmer, Laska Winters and Phillip Strange also contribute excellent characterizations.

"STAIRS OF SAND" FILM BASED ON FAMOUS NOVEL BY ZANE GREY

Zane Grey, who is probably the best known American fiction writer, is the author of "Stairs of Sand" the romance of old Arizona, which was recently completed as a moving picture at the Hollywood Paramount studios and which comes to the Empress Theatre.

Zane Grey's first book was a success, as were all of his romantic western stories which followed. The phenomenal popularity of his stories brought the sales of each to over one million copies. Paramount has contracted for the screen rights to all of them.

"Stairs of Sand" is the twenty-first Zane Grey novel to be pictured by Paramount, and is a worthy successor to a long line of successes. Wallace Beery, Jean Arthur, Chester Conklin, Fred Kohler, Guy Oliver and Phillip R. Holmes comprise the splendid cast which will be seen in the picture.

MACLEOD OLD TIMERS GO TO VANCOUVER

An Old Time family left Macleod on Saturday morning for Vancouver, where they will in future reside. Dr. and Mrs. Mills, their son Darward and Mrs. Mills' father, Micheal (Paddy) Galagher, left quietly by car, very few except close friends knowing that they were going on Saturday. They are moving to the coast principally on account of health.

Dr. Mills has been practicing as a dentist in Macleod for many years, coming from Pincher Creek where he practiced for a number of years.

"Paddy" Gallagher was an old timer, having come to Macleod in 1876 with the North West Mounted Police, afterwards taking up land and was one of the first farmers in the Macleod district, his farm being a short distance south of the Old Fort, east of the present townsite of Macleod. A few years ago Paddy had a serious accident, which unfitted him for farming and he was compelled to give up the farm and with Mrs. Galagher came into town to live. Since the death of Mrs. Galagher a number of years ago, Mr. Galagher has resided with his daughter, Mrs Mills. The old gentleman will be missed on the streets of Macleod, where he was to be seen several times every day, notwithstanding the fact of his being considerably over the fourscore years.

A GREAT ALBERTA INDUSTRY

Thousands of people attended nightly, the "Made in Alberta" exhibition which was held in the Riverview Pavilion, Edmonton, on the week of October the 7th. for six days.

Amongst the many attractive booths which presented in graphic form, the story of their special industry, was a unique one sponsored by the Red Cross Society. No matter what time of day one passed, this stall was the centre of attraction, and the visitors who came to look remained to listen.

The Society put forth some startling claims to attention. One large poster proclaimed the fact that in the year 1928 30,000 boys and girls were made healthier and happier under the Junior Red Cross in the schoolrooms of Alberta.

Not only in the making but in the repairing business is found that forward humanitarian Society, for as we read, we see that 179 children and 350 adults were repaired in the Hospitals operated by the Red Cross.

Such startling facts require some thinking about, and in order to assist meaning of the statistics, there were presented to the eye, two models one of Better Health and the other of an open air hospital ward. Interested children crowded round the small Solarium which is a replica of the large Calgary Tort where many small cripples have been wood back to health under the beneficent rays of Alberta's sunshine.

The other striking model showed health as an investment for all, and by means of green fields and water pools, and sleek cattle the value of personal hygiene and pure food was featured.

The agitation for "Safety First" especially amongst children of the city streets was cleverly illustrated by a model of a section of a crowded thoroughfare where an accident had occurred and a Red Cross Ambulance was busy reseuing the victims.

TIME FOR A PARLEY

Two sentries were marching up and down their separate beats. For some time the old lady watched them in silence. But at last she could keep silent no longer and grabbed one of the men by the arm.

"Can't you two silly lads make it up and be friends?" she asked reproachfully.—Nottingham News.

Guide Posts to Value
AT the top of old Dorfchenberg, not far from the black forest, there is a wilderness of pines where forty-one trails converge. Even experienced hikers were helpless in this maze of paths until kindly peasants carefully marked each trail with a stone guide.
Through the maze of modern products advertisements guide you straight to merchandise of full value. Advertisements save your money by indicating worthy goods. Advertised products do not vary in quality. Ask for them by name.
Study the advertisements carefully and you will be repaid. Take notice of them and you can cut your budget. That means money for a growing savings account, a trim new Parisien hat, or enough to repaint the kitchen. You will be surprised to find how that extra value in advertised products tucks away pennies in your purse. Advertised merchandise gives more value dollar for dollar. Advertisements are your guide to that increased value.

A HORSE ON HER

"Oh—what a strange looking cow," said the sweet young thing from Boston. "But why doesn't it have any horns?"

"Well, you see," replied the farmer, "some cows are born without horns and never have any; others shed theirs and still others we dehorn, while still other breeds arent supposed to have horns at all. There are a lot of reasons why some cows don't have horns, but the big reason why that cow hasn't horns is because she isn't a cow at all, she's a horse."
